Kingman is well known for its natural beauty, its generally pleasant climate, varied recreational activities and diverse cultural opportunities. The temperate climate, clean air, and friendly people are just a few reasons why people are coming to Kingman - first to visit, then to live!!

Although Kingman is one of the fastest-growing areas in Arizona, its sense of community is alive and well. Contributing to it’s growth are its moderate climate, abundance of recreational activities, favorable Arizona taxes, strategic proximity to Phoenix, Las Vegas, Los Angeles, Interstate 40, the Burlington Northern Santa Fe Railway mainline, and the Southern California market. Kingman also has a strong economy based on the Colorado River tourism, manufacturing and ranching. The Kingman area has grown by about 40% since year 2000.

The county boasts about 1,000 miles of shoreline, and is a renowned water sports center. It also contains the longest stretch of historic Route 66. The Colorado River and two man made lakes, Lake Mohave and Lake Havasu, also play an important role in the growth of the county.

‘The Heart of Historic Route 66,’ is situated in the southwest corner of the Hualapai Valley surrounded by desert terrain of tufa stone bluffs, terra cotta plateaus, chaparral and desert willow and pine tree-covered mountains.

The city offers a large variety of housing choices with plenty of room for expansion. The community is surrounded by historical attractions and enjoys a rich heritage, which is celebrated through cultural arts and community events.

The combination of cultural amenities, climate, and recreation are conducive to a well-rounded quality of life in Kingman. Kingman also enjoys a strong economy along with a moderate cost of living, excellent health care and education. Consequently, it’s a good choice for relocation of a family or a business. They also have a variety of senior living accommodations to choose from, and many activities and services for the senior community. This guide will hopefully aid you as a new resident of the area. Economy

The area known for the last 120 years as Kingman has a long history of being right in and on a major trade route. First by Native Americans, then gold seekers and wagon trains, which led to the railroad and a present day hub of highways including Route 66, Interstate 40 and Highway 93 all crowned with a modern airport. Because of this natural path of commerce to and from California, Kingman has enjoyed accommodating shippers.

Distribution centers and manufacturers are now calling Kingman home largely due to this strategic location as well as low Arizona taxes and attractive land prices for their large facilities. Several dozen businesses are located at the Airport Industrial Park, located just five miles north of I-40 on Rt. 66. Pepsi-Cola Company, Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., and American Woodmark Corp. are a few of these.

All utilities are available, with railway, air, interstate trucking and many acres of zoned industrial property.

There are several shopping centers conveniently located on Andy Devine Blvd. (Rt. 66) just north of the I-40 freeway, and on Stockton Hill Rd. Sprinkled throughout Kingman are various outdoor malls, at least a dozen antique stores, and many specialty stores.

Adding to the economy are the many services catering to the ever-increasing tourist trade, and new senior living accommodations for retirees desiring good medical care in a great area. Kingman is also a NADO award-winning Arizona REDI accredited community.

Cost of Living
Mohave County’s overall cost of living reinforces the fact that the County is one of the most cost-efficient areas in the west for industry. The comparatively affordable housing market is a big attraction in Mohave County. In many areas of the Western United States, inexpensive housing can be difficult to find. In Mohave County, the market place is so broad that you can buy a brand new “affordable” home, a higher priced new home, or a broad range of older homes. Mohave County offers employees the opportunity to become first-time homeowners.

Health Care, Mohave County
The County is served by four major hospitals with additional clinics and extended care facilities strategically located through the county: Kingman Regional Medical Center, Kingman (235 licensed beds); Western Arizona Regional Medical Center, Bullhead City (139 licensed beds); Valley View Medical Center, Ft. Mohave (90 licensed beds); and Havasu Regional Medical Center, Lake Havasu City (181 licensed beds).
Lewis Kingman began surveying along the Atlantic and Pacific right of way between Needles and Albuquerque in about 1880. By 1883, the track was completed. In November 1882, a rooming house, stores and other buildings started going up and Kingman was founded. Situated in the scenic Hualapai Valley between the Cerbat and Hualapai mountain ranges, it grew rapidly in the first few years. Further growth came in 1887 when the County Seat was moved from Mineral Park to Kingman. In November 1886, the Kingman schoolhouse was completed. It was a wooden structure of about 18’ X 40’, located on the SW corner of 4th and Oak Streets. The Methodist Episcopal Church of Kingman was formed on February 10, 1887. March 1894 marked the opening of Kingman’s new burial ground outside of the town limits. Anyone who had friends or relatives buried in the town limits had to move them, at their own expense, to the new site.

Those not moved within 30 days would be moved by order of the Board of Supervisors and the costs shared by all the residents of Kingman. The cemetery was located on the current site of the football field of Kingman High School.

The discovery of The Gold Road Mine in 1900 established Kingman as a mining community in addition to it being a railroad center. With a population of about 500, an ordinance was passed by the Board of Supervisors, establishing an official Kingman Township town plat creating streets and alleys.

Andy Devine (a Western actor) was raised in Kingman. His father started the Beale Hotel. One of the major streets of Kingman is named Andy Devine Avenue and the city holds annual Andy Devine Days. The street is part of Route 66 and the town’s name is mentioned in the lyrics to the song “Route 66”. After World War II, the town turned increasingly to the tourist market. Historic Route 66 paralleled the railroad route, leading millions westward to California throughout the early 20th Century. The travelers brought prosperity to Kingman as a trade and transportation center, and Route 66 became an essential part of Kingman’s personality.

On July 5, 1973 Kingman was the site of a very unfortunate, catastrophic BLEVE (Boiling Liquid Expanding Vapor Explosion) which killed 11 firefighters. The explosion occurred following a fire that broke out as propane was being transferred from a railroad car to a storage tank. This explosion has become a classic incident studied in fire department training programs worldwide.

Locomotive Park
The park is home to the famed steam engine #3759. Engine No. #3759, built in 1928, was a coal burning steam locomotive that carried passengers from Los Angeles to Kansas City. When it was retired it had run about 2,585,600 miles. It was presented to the City of Kingman by the Santa Fe Railroad in 1957 as a historical monument. It is listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

Historic Downtown Kingman
The historical downtown area is a fascinating reflection of Kingman’s past. The Kingman Multiple Resource Area contains over 60 individual National Register Historic properties, plus the Historic Commercial District located downtown. Additional residential, religious, fraternal, public, commercial, and archaeological sites can be found throughout the Kingman area.

Examples of some of the more well-known historic properties include St. Mary’s Catholic Church, the Little Red School House (currently the City Municipal Court), the Bonelli House, AT&SF Locomotive #3759, the Railroad Depot, Hotel Beale, Hotel Brunswick, Hubb’s House, Kingman Drug (currently El Palicio Restaurant), and the Powerhouse.

Power House Visitor Center
The restoration of the Powerhouse, a turn-of-the-century electric generating station located at 120 W. Andy Devine Avenue, was completed in 1997. Built to withstand the ages, out of reinforced concrete, it has been about 90 years since the Powerhouse started generating electricity for northwest Arizona. The building has been used as a generating station, electrical substation, recycling center, and in its current incarnation, as the crown jewel of Kingman: a Visitor’s Center.

Original construction began in 1907 and the Powerhouse was in full operation until 1927. All production ceased in 1938, and the building then became a substation for Desert Power and Water.

In the mid-sixties, all use of the facility ceased and it sat vacant. In 1986, the building was placed in the National Register of Historic Places. In 1988, Citizens Utilities donated the structure to the newly formed, non-profit, Powerhouse Gang for renovation and revitalization.

In the fall of 1997, a grand opening and re-dedication was held for this important building, opening it for every visitor to Kingman to come inside and explore. Now housed with the Tourist Information Center are the Carlos Elmer Memorial Photo Gallery, a gift shop, model railroad store, Kingman Chamber of Commerce, and the Historic Route 66 Association of Arizona.

Mohave Museum of History and Arts
Dedicated to the purposes of preserving the heritage of Northwestern Arizona and founded in 1960, the Mohave Museum of History and Arts features 12,000 sq. ft. of historical displays and dioramas depicting the “Old West.”

An outdoor historical display includes a covered wagon and blacksmith shop. Inside the museum are detailed dioramas chronicling Kingman’s social and political past.

Life in the high southwestern desert is depicted inside the Hualapai Indian Room, with a traditional Indian dwelling, and a display of traditional pottery and basketry. Handcrafted turquoise is on display in another of the museums rooms, and locally produced sculptures, crafts, and paintings are featured in continually changing exhibits at the museums.

The life and times of Kingman’s hometown hero and native son is also featured at the museum. Andy Devine was born in Fiskgstaff, raised in Kingman and became a very successful television star playing the role of “Jingles” in The Adventures of Wild Bill Hickok. Kingman celebrates Andy Devine Days primarily because Andy was one of Kingman’s own and a highly respected figure.

A non-lending research library is open to the public featuring historical information, genealogy of Mohave County, Arizona, the Southwest, and mining as well as numerous maps and newspapers dating from 1881. Lectures, movies, concerts and art shows are held in the auditorium of the museum which has a capacity of 200 persons, kitchen facilities, and a projection room.

Bonelli House
Historic “Bonelli House” sits proudly at the corner of 5th and Spring Streets in downtown Kingman. Its Anglo-Territorial architecture, generous verandas and thick, locally-quarried tufa stone construction, is a charming symbol of eastern refinement.

George W. Bonelli, son of a Nevada pioneer from Switzerland, was both an affluent cattle rancher and plucky entrepreneur with many business interests. Married to Effie Ellen Tarr, daughter of Kingman’s Santa Fe Railroad Station Master, the couple had nine children. Their original wooden home (1894) was destroyed by fire in 1915. Wasting no time, George designed and helped stonemason Pendergast build this spacious home where original clocks, clothing and furnishings remain to be seen. Open weekdays from 11:00am-3:00pm. Call (928) 753-3195 for additional information.

The water temperature is about 70 degrees throughout the year. There is an 8-mile hike from the Hualapai Hilltop parking area to Supai Village. Mule or helicopter transportation can also be arranged in advance. You can bring your own food, water and camping equipment. Pack mules are also available. Supai Village has a small store, a café, lodge and a museum.

The Hualapai Tribe commissioned the building of a glass skywalk at the Grand Canyon’s western rim, which opened in 2007.

The Skywalk is the only glass bridge to suspend about 4,000 feet above the Colorado River and extend over the edge of the Grand Canyon.

Lake Mead National Recreation Area

Lake Mead National Recreation Area (NRA) offers a wealth of things to do and places to go year-round. With 1.5 million acres, it is twice the size of Rhode Island. Its huge bays cater to boaters, swimmers, sunbathers, and fishermen while its desert rewards hikers, wildlife photographers, and roadside sightseers. Three of America’s four desert ecosystems - the Mojave, the Great Basin, and the Sonoran Deserts - meet in Lake Mead NRA. As a result, this seemingly barren area contains a surprising variety of plants and animals, some of which may be found nowhere else in the world. The Lake Mead National Recreation Area was established Oct. 8, 1964.

Lake Mead, the largest man-made lake in the U.S. (based on storage capacity) was created by the construction of Hoover Dam, one of the country’s modern engineering wonders. Due to it’s overall depth, it stores more than any other Colorado River reservoir, including Lake Powell. Both land and boat tours of the dam are conducted daily. The Desert Princess, a 275 passenger and 10 crew member paddle wheeler located at Lake Marina, is available for tours.

Lake Mohave

North of the Davis dam, Lake Mohave has about 237 miles of shoreline that can be enjoyed year round as days are almost always sunny. The terrain surrounding the lake varies from sheer cliffs of multicolored rocks to sandy beaches and secluded coves. Noted for its water sports - swimming, skiing, scuba diving, boating and fishing - Lake Mohave also offers other recreation. Ancient Indian petroglyph’s and other historical remains lure hikers into the surrounding mountains.

Chloride
Nestled in the foothills of the Cerbat Mountains at approximately 4,000 ft., (between Kingman and Las Vegas), Chloride is another of northern Arizona’s historic towns. The town was founded between 1862 and 1863 with the discovery of Silver on what is known as “Silver Hill.” In 1870 a peace treaty was signed with the Hualapai Indians, which opened the way for more construction of mining camps. The Chloride Post office is the oldest continuously (since 1873) operated post office in Arizona. During Chloride’s heyday, 1900-1920, the population swelled to over 2,000 with 75 mines in operation. Its current population of about 250 is a talented blend of fine artists, writers, musicians and craftsmen, operating small shops in the historic buildings of this once booming mining town. For more information, contact the Chloride Chamber of Commerce, 4940 Tennessee Ave, Chloride, AZ 86431 or call (928) 565-2204.

Historic Route 66
From Chicago to L.A., more than two thousand miles all the way was the boasting lyrics of the famous song “Get Your Kicks on Route 66.” Kingman is at the heart of the longest stretch of this famed highway still in existence and intact.

The foundation for both the community of Kingman and the “highway” was laid hundreds of years ago. Native Americans who lived in the surrounding deserts and mountains, originally forged the path that was to become Route 66 as a trade route to the Pacific. The “National Old Trails Highway” was the result and with continued improvement, it was renamed ‘Route 66’ in 1926. With the unprecedented prosperity of the postwar years, Route 66 became one long neon avenue from Chicago to L.A. Through the years, the highway has had many names “The Main Street of America,” “The Wire Road,” “The Will Rogers Highway,” and the ‘Mother Road’ to name a few. Songs and television shows immortalized it and Kingman was at the heart of it all. By the 1950’s, with the increase in traffic came the ‘National Interstate Highway System.’ One of the new interstates was to be I-40, which would parallel Route 66 in many places, and cover it in others. So ended a way of life for many of the communities along Route 66.

In 1987, the Historic Route 66 Association of Arizona was formed prompting additional interest in the historic highway. This increased tourism along the Arizona portion of the old route in communities such as Williams, Seligman, Hackberry, Valle Vista, Topock/Golden Shores and Oatman.

Hualapai Mountain Park
The park is over 2,200 acres with elevations ranging from 4,984 to 8,417 feet and located about 14 miles southeast of Kingman in the Hualapai Mountain pines. Hualapai Mountain Park was first developed during the early 1930s by the Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC). The roads, trail, picnic, and camping areas, along with the stone cabins and pavilions, still remain much as they were 50 years ago, helping to give the park its own unique and solid character.

The name Hualapai means “Pine Tree Folk” and is derived from the name of the Indian tribe that once called these mountains home until they were relocated by the military in the 1870s.

The total beauty, character, and history of the Hualapai Mountain Park cannot be fully expressed in words – it is something that must be experienced.

Keepers of the Wild also has a strict “No Breeding” policy with a special focus on advocacy, education and protection.

The 175 acre animal sanctuary is located in Valentine, Arizona about 25 miles east of Kingman at mile marker 87 on Route 66.

Oatman
In 1915, two miners struck a $10 million gold find, and within a year, the town’s population grew to more than 3,500 and to 10,000 at its peak. Oatman was named after Olive Oatman, who was kidnapped as a young girl by Mojave Indians and later rescued in 1857 near the current site of the town. In 1921, a fire burned down many of the smaller shacks in town, and three years later, the main mining company.
Oatman later survived by catering to travelers on Route 66. In the 1960’s, after Interstate 40 was completed, Oatman almost died.

Today Oatman is an authentic old western town with wild burros roaming the streets and gunfights staged on weekends. The burros are descendents of those that the miners turned loose when the mine closed. There are many original buildings still in use today. The Oatman Hotel was used as a honeymoon location for Clark Gable and Carol Lombard in 1939. Their honeymoon suite is still one of the major attractions in town. Gable returned here often to play poker with the local miners. The town was used as a location for several movies such as: How The West Was Won, Foxfire and Edge of Eternity. From Kingman take I-40 west (exit 44) to Route 66 Back Country Byway.

Oatman Stables

Stetson Winery
Welcome to Stetson Winery and Event Center, a newly established oasis of hospitality, friendliness, good times and relaxed living which is pioneering the grape growing and wine industry in northwest Arizona.

Stetson Winery’s wines have been master crafted by award winning vintner, Eric Glomski. Eric’s passion as a winemaker began a number of years ago while experimenting with making hard cider from apples. When he opened the first bottle, he was stunned. The wine was evocative. This epiphany has blossomed into a stellar career. In 2012, Eric’s wines were chosen as the official wines for the Arizona State Centennial celebrations. Located at 10965 N. Moonscape Way, (928) 757-7206.

The Grand Canyon
The Grand Canyon is a magnificent, steep-walled gorge carved out over many years by the Colorado river, and is located in the northwest part of the state of Arizona. The Grand Canyon is contained within and managed by the Grand Canyon National Park, the Hualapai Tribal Nation, and the Havasupai Tribe. President Theodore Roosevelt, who was a major proponent of preservation of the Grand Canyon area, visited the Grand Canyon on numerous occasions to hunt and enjoy the scenery.

There are two main public areas of Grand Canyon National Park, which are the North and South Rims. At 7,000 feet above sea level, the Grand Canyon South Rim is the most accessible section of the national park, with numerous places where visitors can stop to admire the views. One can also take a helicopter, mule or hike down to the bottom of the canyon. There are also white water rafting trips available down the mighty Colorado river that has carved out this 1 mile deep, 277 mile long, up to 18 miles wide, awesome colorful gorge.

The Grand Canyon Caverns
The Grand Canyon Caverns are an unique underground attraction located along Historic Route 66 about 60 miles northeast of Kingman. This natural wonder is not part of the Grand Canyon itself, and is privately owned. The Grand Canyon Caverns’ elevation is more than 5000 feet above sea level and this natural limestone cavern is about 220 feet underground. Millions of years and dramatic climatic changes such as volcanic eruptions, earthquakes, and tropical downpours, have been involved in forming the Caverns. Over ninety percent of the world’s caverns are wet, but this is a dry or dead cavern, with a humidity of only 6% and a constant temperature of about 57 degrees. Fossils of prehistoric clams, scallops, and evidence of sea turtle remains have been found in the limestone walls indicating that it was not always a dry cavern. The remains of a Giant Ground Sloth were also discovered here. It is estimated that the sloth would have weighed 2000 pounds and became extinct between 11 and 20 thousand years ago. Call (928) 422-4565 for additional information.
